

Terms and Conditions of Use

Electronic Editions of Scholarly Journals

The following Terms and Conditions of Use apply to the use of electronic editions of scholarly journals (hereafter, Journal) published by the University of Texas Press (hereafter, Press). Refusal or failure to abide by these Terms and Conditions of Use may result in suspension or termination of access. The Press may amend or supplement these Terms and Conditions of Use as needed without prior notice.

Definitions

“Authorized User”: An electronic subscription grants unlimited access to the full text of the Journal for educational, research, and personal use by institutional research and teaching staff, whether permanent or visiting; students; employees, both full-time and part-time; and on-site users of the institution library(s) and campus computer network(s).

“Journal”: the electronic edition, including all supplementary and associated electronic materials, of a scholarly journal published by the Press whether on its own behalf or on behalf of a scholarly society or other publishing partner. The Journal(s) may be hosted by the Press on its web site or on the web site of an agent authorized by the Press to host the electronic editions.

Permitted Use of the Journal

Institutional Use

1. Classroom and educational use: All copying for classroom and education use or posting of electronic content in electronic reserves beyond the fair use provisions of Section 107 of the Copyright Act of the U.S. requires written permission from the Press.

<http://utpress.utexas.edu/index.php/permissions-request>
www.copyright.com

2. Interlibrary loan: Institutional subscribers may use hard or electronic copies derived directly or indirectly from the electronic edition of the Journal for the purpose of interlibrary loan with the same limitations that apply to paper copies for that purpose made from the print edition of the journals. Specifically, copies must be made in compliance with Section 108 of the Copyright Act of the U.S. and with guidelines developed by the National Commission on New Technological Uses of Copyrighted Works (CONTU Guidelines), the text of which is available as part of U.S. Copyright Office Circular 21.

3. Materials from the Journals may not be modified, redistributed, licensed, sold, used to make multiple copies, or otherwise exploited in any way for commercial purposes.

4. Institutions may download and save the materials to which they subscribe on a local domain Web server in order to provide online access to their local community. However, access to the files on the library's server must be restricted to authorized users, which include faculty, staff, students, employees, and library patrons of the subscribed institution.

5. Institutional subscribers are responsible for undertaking reasonable measures to prevent access by unauthorized persons to authorized IP addresses, and are responsible for terminating any unauthorized access of which the institution has actual notice or knowledge. Institutions will not be held responsible for unauthorized use of the Journal provided (i) such use is without the express or implied consent of the institution; (ii) the institution promptly notifies the Press of any such use of which it becomes aware; and

(iii) the institution takes all reasonable steps to terminate such activity promptly. The Press reserves the right to deny access immediately if unauthorized use is detected or suspected; however, denial of access will be limited, to the extent practicable, to the IP address(es) from which the activity originated. The Press agrees to notify promptly the institution of any denial of access; to cooperate with the institution in terminating such activity; and to restore access to the affected IP address(es) within one business day of successful resolution of the situation. Failure to take reasonable steps to terminate unauthorized activity within thirty (30) days of notice from the Press of such activity or repeated usage violation from the authorized IP addresses of the institution may result in suspension or termination of access.

Disclaimers

The Press does not warrant that the Journal will be accessible in any particular hardware/software environment. The Press does not warrant the accuracy or completeness of any information contained in the Journal, or its merchantability or fitness for a particular purpose.

The Press will have no liability to any person for any loss or damage arising out of use of, or inability to use, the Journal.

The Press will make reasonable efforts to make the Journal available on a 24-hour basis, excluding normal network administration and system down time, but if access is suspended or interrupted, liability will be limited to restoring access as soon as practicable.

Privacy Policy

Your use of the Journal indicates your acceptance of the Press's privacy policy located at:
<https://utpress.utexas.edu/index.php/privacy-policy>